

New appointment at David Smith ensures customer care remains key

The Eastern region's premier timber engineering specialist, David Smith St Ives Limited is delighted to welcome to their team Les Church, as Business Development Manager for their staircase, roof truss and joist departments.

Les offers an impressive industry knowledge spanning some 30 years, and his experience will help to ensure that David Smith's reputation for performance related products, matched with superior customer service will be further endorsed with architects, structural engineers, surveyors, and builders and developers throughout the UK.

David Smith has been established in St Ives, near Cambridge since 1963, and from their state-of-the-art manufacturing site, they have been designing, manufacturing and supplying purpose-made timber solutions for installation in many locations including residential developments, self-build homes and large commercial and public sector projects.

"I am looking forward to ensuring that all of our customers experience the true value of working in partnership with David Smith. Since its inception, the company's success has been built upon offering a superb product, supported with first class customer care, and these values remain the same today. This heralds an exciting time for me on a personal level, and also for David Smith as we continue to see our product range being increasingly specified throughout the construction industry", commented Les Church.
